Tim Meana, Project Manager, Walsh-Bondfield Partnership

3:00 2B Debate Series: Two Sides of Contentious Issues Facing the Canadian P3 Market
Opening the Valve on Canada's P3 Pipeline

Ballroom

Two teams of P3 practitioners will debate three important themes on kick-starting the pipeline in Canada. And in the true spirit of debate, the teams won't know which side of the debate they will be on until the coin is tossed before they begin. This session is being developed by the Young Leaders in Infrastructure (YLI) group.

Moderator: Mark Bain, Partner, Torys LLP & Director, CCPPP

Debaters: Greg Smith, Managing Partner, Global Infrastructure Advisory Group, Brookfield Financial Corp.
Tim Murphy, Partner, McMillan LLP
Pierre Anctil, President & CEO, Fiera Axiom Infrastructure
Ruth McMorrow, Executive Vice President, Parsons Enterprises

2C Getting on Board the P3 Train: Models that Work for Canadian Transit Projects

Concert Hall

Municipal transit is a hot topic in Canadian P3, and there are several projects at the planning and procurement phase. But these regional, high price-tag projects can also face significant governance challenges in moving forward. With station stops in Edmonton, Kitchener, Ottawa and Toronto, what's the latest status of these projects, what are the next steps and how will each of them ensure that they meet the expectations of their owners, their investors and their riders?

Moderator: Daniel Roth, Senior Vice President, Infrastructure Advisory Services, Ernst & Young Orenda Corporate Finance Inc.

Panel: Nat Alampi, Program Manager, LRT Design & Construction, City of Edmonton
John Jensen, Director, Rail Implementation, City of Ottawa

Ballroom

Moderator: John Bisanti, Senior Vice President, Services Division, EllisDon Corporation

For the outsider, the calculation of P3's Value for Money (VFM) can be confusing and complicated. Some believe it's not really proven. Others think that VFM has been proven in projects across the country and that other benefits should be included to capture even greater value in the P3 approach. Hear both sides in the first of this debate series, which is sure to spark some passionate dialogue.

Debate 1: Matti Siemiatycki, PhD, Assistant Professor, Geography & Planning, University of Toronto
Larry Blain, Chair, Partnerships BC

Canada's public sector unions are on record as opposing the P3 model as more costly for taxpayers and a threat to the working conditions and pay of union members. But for many private sector unions, P3s have offered a unique opportunity for profit sharing, job advancement and a stake in how the work gets done. In this head-to-head with union leaders, hear the perspectives of both sides and decide if there's some common ground to engage all types of unions in the P3 market.

Debate 2: Toby Sanger, Senior Economist, Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE)
Mike Yorke, President, Carpenters Union Local 27

3C Gauging P3 Performance: Changing the On-Time, On-Budget Dialogue

Concert Hall

Various studies have shown the benefits of the P3 approach – cost savings and on time and on budget delivery of new infrastructure. Are there other benefits that result as well? Researchers from academia, government and business share a common interest in wanting to better understand and measure the impact of this approach. Hear from experts in Canada and abroad who have been examining these questions and join them in discussing the next wave of research for CCPPP.

Moderator: Nicholas Hann, Executive Director, Macquarie Capital Markets Canada Ltd. & Director, CCPPP

Panel: Colin Duffield, Associate Professor, University of Melbourne and Co-Author of "Performance of PPPs and Traditional Procurement in Australia"
Phuong Tra TRAN, Researcher, Economics of Public Private Partnerships Chair, Sorbonne Business School, France

Learn about the government's latest plans for PFI first hand and find out how global P3 companies can take advantage of a renewed UK infrastructure market.

Speaker: Paul Skinner, Chairman, Infrastructure UK

4B Bringing Small Players into the P3 World

Ballroom

There is a presumption among many small contractors and consultants that the scale, complexity and risk profile of P3s favour multi-national companies with deep pockets. What are some of the concerns that smaller contractors have and what can the market and governments do to help alleviate those fears and encourage greater local participation?

Moderator: John McArthur, President, Kiewit Development Company & Director, CCPPP

Panel: Dave Klassen, Director of Design-Build, EllisDon Corporation
Keith Sashaw, President, Vancouver Regional Construction Association
Wally Budgell, President, Robertson Bright Inc.

4C Getting the Model Right: A Market Sounding on Service Delivery

Imperial Room

Ontario and other jurisdictions are increasingly looking at public service delivery as a new area of focus to improve efficiency and maximize value for money. Hear from this panel of experts on what governments can do and what the private sector can offer to finance and structure service related deals that achieve optimal results for both partners. Topics for discussion will include IT, help desk functions, soft FM and street lighting.

Moderator: Gord Willcocks, Partner, Infrastructure and Projects Group, McCarthy Tétrault LLP & Director, CCPPP

Panel: Mary Lowe, Executive Vice President, Commercial Projects & Lending, Infrastructure Ontario
Karl Gagesch, Vice President, Public-Private Partnerships, Sodexo
Cheryl Slusarchuk, Partner, McCarthy Tétrault LLP
